NOTES FROM OUR PASTOR:

Dear Parishioners,

Justice is often considered the quality of being impartial and evenhanded in assigning reward or penalty. The courts and legal systems are set up to accomplish this. But is impartial and evenhanded justice always “just”? The parable of the workers in the vineyard illustrates this dilemma. The landowner who had hired laborers, five separate times, during the course of the day, had entered into monetary agreement only with the first set hired. The first set worked for 12 hours; the last set worked for only one hour. When it was time to pay, he paid each exactly the same; the amount he had agreed to with the first set. From the point of view of those who had worked the longest, the payment system would appear be “unjust.” True justice is not necessarily always about one’s rights and entitlement. St. Pope John Paul II once said that a society is judged on the basis of how it treats its weakest and most vulnerable members; particularly the unborn and the dying.

The Christian lives in an imperfect society. Our system has a one-size-fits-all approach. That approach only works where all are the same size, and all get equal chance at the same baseline starting point. The fact, however, is that our response to God’s call occurs at different stages and ages of our life. There are some whose response is immediate, and occurs in the early stage of their life. There those whose response comes at the 11th hour; or the “evening” of their life. But God never overlooks the “labor” carried out in good faith; the conversion carried out in good conscience. God’s reward for keeping faith is eternal life; eternal life has got to be the same for all, notwithstanding how long one might have labored in the “vineyard”. Similarly, there may be some whose progress in life has been held back by poor judgment; or a combination of events beyond their control. In the divine justice system, everyone receives a fair chance. To his disciples and to us Jesus says: “I desire mercy, and not sacrifice. For I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.” (Mt 9:13)

There are a number of events lined up for the coming weeks. Today is the Memorial Mass for Randy Struck. Mass begins at 2.30 pm, followed by reception at KC Hall. Please, come join us, even if you have been to an earlier Mass.

God is good all the time; and He has blessed our parish bountifully this year. Oktoberfest is our Harvest Thanksgiving and our main fundraiser for the year. Thank you for the auction items. Please, pray for good weather, and a lots and lots of enthusiasm.

Many blessings. Father Joseph
